

Your renting rights and responsibilities

When you rent a place to live you have rights and responsibilities, and so does the person you rent from. In Queensland the renting rules are set out in the Queensland Residential Tenancies and Rooming Accommodation Act 2008.

The renting rules apply whether you rent from a private lessor, a real estate agent, a community housing provider, or the Department of Housing. In the renting laws, and in your renting agreement, the person or organisation you rent from is called your lessor.

Your Residential Tenancy Agreement will state what you both agree to. This agreement must reflect what is in the renting rules. Even if you and your lessor do not have a written tenancy agreement the renting rules still apply.

When you move in your lessor or agent must

- Give you a written Residential Tenancy Agreement.
- Give you a rent receipt, or keep a record of your rent payments.
- Give you an Entry Condition Report to say what the place is like when you move in. You can add your comments to the form.
- Give you an RTA renting information booklet.
- Make sure the place is clean and fit for you to live in.

If you pay a rental bond

- The lessor or agent must give you a receipt if you pay bond money.
- The maximum bond amount they can charge is equal to 4 weeks rent (but if your rent is over $700 a week there is no maximum bond amount).
- They must fill in a Bond Lodgement (Form 2) with you that you both sign.
- The lessor or agent has 10 days to send your bond money to the RTA.

Moving in tips for renters

- Inspect the place first, before you sign the agreement.
- A tenancy agreement is a legal contract. You can be held responsible if you break the agreement, or do not meet your renting responsibilities.
- After you sign the agreement keep a copy for your records.
- If you pay money for rent or bond ask for a receipt.
- Take photos and make a record of what the place is like when you move in. You have 3 days to write your comments on the Entry Condition Report and return a copy to the lessor or agent. Keep a copy.

When you rent a place your lessor must:

- Maintain the place so it is fit for you to live in.
- Keep the place, and things that are included, in good repair.
- Do the repairs in a reasonable time if you ask for repairs to be done.
- Comply with health or safety laws for people who live in the place.
- Make sure the locks work and the place is reasonably secure.
- Give you a written notice if they want to enter the place.
- Respect your privacy.

When you rent a place you must:

- Look after the place and keep it clean.
- Let the lessor or agent know if repairs are needed.
- Do not damage, or allow someone else to damage, the place.
- Do not cause a disturbance or nuisance for your neighbours.
- Do not use the place for unlawful purposes.
- Get permission from the lessor if you want to have a pet.
- Get permission if you want other people to move in with you.
- Pay your rent on time according to the agreement.

To end the agreement you or the lessor must either:

- Give a written notice to end the agreement, or
- Get an order from the QCAT tenancy tribunal to end the agreement, or
- Make a written statement that you both agree to end the Residential Tenancy Agreement. This is called a Mutual Termination Agreement.

Moving out you must

- Remove all your possessions from the place.
- Leave the place clean, similar to when you moved in, but you are not responsible for everyday maintenance, or wear from daily use.
- Gather evidence to show you have left the place clean. Take photos.
- When you move out fill in an Exit Condition Report to say what the place is like and give a copy to the lessor or agent.
- Return all the keys to the lessor or agent when you move out.

Getting your bond back

- After you move out you can use a Refund of Rental Bond (form 4) to apply to the RTA to get your bond money back.
- Your lessor may claim money from your bond if you left the place dirty, owe rent, damaged the place, or broke the agreement.
- If you and the lessor do not agree on these claims the RTA has a free dispute process you can follow to solve the dispute.
- When you move out let the RTA know your new contact details.

Keep copies of ALL paperwork between you and your lessor
